Response:

The figures deliver information about the renovations of Shipsmouth from 1995 to 2010. Overall, the city saw a complete overhaul of its facilities to accommodate more residents and essential services.

If we consider transportation infrastructures, it is apparent that they were thoroughly expanded. As a case in point, two stations were positioned on both sides of the city center in 2010 compared to only one 15 years earlier. A new airport was also constructed in the bottom right corner of the city while the city center was made exclusive to pedestrians.

Other developments are also noticeable when residential and leisure facilities are considered. In particular, the houses to the right of the city center had given way to skyscrapers by 2010 and similarly, the woods in the top left corner had been replaced with apartment blocks. As for leisure centers, not only was a shopping mall erected in place of the factory but the church also saw a similar fate, with it being substituted for a pub in 2010. In addition to that, a new football stadium was put up between the mall and the station.
