Subject: These maps below shows developments of Happy Valley shopping center between 1982 and 2012.

Model Answer #1

Response:

The shown maps demonstrate improvements to the Happy Valley shopping mall from 1982 to 2012.

Overall, the renewed shopping mall has a greater area than it used to have in 1982, with some modified landscaping.

Firstly, there is no longer a lobby area, but the entertainment area remains. However, the locations of stores changed; for example, electronics and sports stores were in the north in 2012, and before they were located opposite the entrance. The food store had the opposite relocation; even so, the number of stores increased. In fact, the shopping center in 2012 has themed restaurants next to the electronics and food stores.

When it comes to the landscaping of the shopping mall, the lake was dried out, and a furniture retail store was built in that place, which was in the stores section. Happy Valley removed the entrance pathway, replacing it with a large parking lot and cutting down some trees.

The maps demonstrate the differences in the Happy Valley Shopping Center between 1982 and 2012.

Overall, the shopping mall underwent significant changes with the addition of a new parking lot and the reconstruction of the main building.

As can be seen on the right side of the map, in 1982, there was a row of trees next to the main building, which was removed due to the extension of the main building over the next 20 years. In addition, in 2012, the section beside the right wall of the main building was divided into four parts consisting of a food store and themed restaurants instead of three with a sports store, an electronics store, and a furniture store as in the past. In 1982, the food store was located next to the upper wall, which was later occupied by the sports and electronic stores. The entertainment area and elevator to the next floor were still the same despite the time.

Regarding the leftover areas of the mall, there was a road leading to the entrance and the main lobby of the main building in 1982. In 2012, a parking lot was constructed in that area and the entrance was widened to account for the area of the lobby. The coffee shop in the corner of the old building and the lake outside were also removed in the reconstruction of the shopping mall to make a furniture retail section.

Toilets remained on the left side, while the furniture retail space was relocated above them. The entertainment area was repositioned to the right of the electronics, with the food store located below, complemented by the addition of themed restaurants to the right.
